

The House on the Marsh
Florence Warden

Violet Christie is just 18 years old as she heads towards her first position as a governess. She tries to be enthusiastic about the Norfolk countryside, the imposing house and her employer's family. However, there are mysteries here. The mistress of the house is detached and aloof, but that can be explained by grief and depression. Violet overhears a village girl warning her companion "you should not have spoken to her. Don't you know she comes from the house on the marsh?" And what of Mr. Rayner? He is definitely hiding something!

The House on the Marsh was made into a silent movie in 1920. - Summary by LynneT
